Your House

What have you got in your kitchen cupboards?

How would you keep warm or cool without power?

What skills and resources in your house could you share?

Your Street

Who on your street knows first aid? or has power generation? What are your strengths?

How do you come together as a street, giving and receiving as equals?

How does your street support each other, and the wider community?

Your Community

How do your local community stay in contact with each other?

What resources are available in your community?

How do different crises affect people in your community differently?

CARING FOR YOUR COMMUNITY IN CRISIS

In this time of uncertainty, do you have what you need in your community?

rebellion.earth

LOOKING OUT FOR YOUR PEOPLE

Every time we open the news there is a new crisis, big in our minds is the conflict in Iran and how the oil and fertiliser situation progresses this year.

And let's not forget the ongoing crises in Congo, Sudan, Palestine, USA... the list goes on.

Regardless of the particular moment we can come together and prepare for shocks.

Think about your Community

As tempting as it is to just think of your own space, we cannot withstand shocks in isolation!

Consider:

How much at minimum could you live off?
Now half it...
How would you make that work?

Find ways to come together as equals to share resources. Does there need to be a person in charge, or can we avoid hierarchy?

"in the early days of humans, the community was our only protection against predators, and against starvation. We survived because we trusted one another."

- Sherman Alexie

Start with Curiosity

Begin by asking questions! Do not assume helplessness, but learn the strengths of your local area and its people! Community can be messy, that's okay!

Connection

We know the strength of mutual aid in times of crisis! Have these structures in place before they are needed.

Privilege

Remember, not everyone is in the same position as you. People have different needs and access to support. How might you recognise and act on this?

WHERE TO BEGIN

What are your local risks?

Each area has its own risks. Think about what is most likely to happen. Maybe flooding, power cuts, or heatwaves.

Things to Consider

Food, Water, Shelter, Heating, Health, Transport, Communications, Medication, Childcare, Money, Joy & Art!

Being in Community

Connect with your community not just by offering help, but also by receiving support, connecting people, sharing information and showing up however you can!
