

Chalk for the Planet

Grab some colourful chalks and draw images or write messages about the climate crisis.

This is a great way to get children involved on the street- as them to draw the things they love the most about our planet. Their parents may want to get involved too, but whilst the kids are occupied you can talk more seriously to the parents.

