

Creating your event: Publishing and finding your event in your Eventbrite account

Once you are happy to publish your events, and have double checked all the text, information and settings are correct, then you can publish by going onto the events dashboard. Then clicking '4: Publish' on the left hand side bar. This will give you an option to preview the event, as well as being able to decide if you want to publish straight away or schedule publishing for later. Once you are happy click 'Publish' on the bottom right corner.

The screenshot shows the Eventbrite 'Publish Your Event' dashboard. On the left is a sidebar with navigation links: Home, Events (selected), Draft (with a dropdown), and a list of event details for '(your LG or city) coach to the big one!' including the date 'Fri, 21 Apr 2023 15:00' and a 'Preview your event' link. Below this is a menu with 'Basic Info', 'Details', 'Tickets', and 'Publish' (highlighted with a blue circle and number 4). Further down are links for 'Dashboard', 'Order Options', 'Payments & Tax', 'Marketing', and 'Manage Attendees'. The main content area is titled 'Publish Your Event' and features a yellow event poster for 'COACH TO THE BIG ONE' with the text '(INSERT PICK UP POINT)' and '21ST APRIL 7AM'. To the right of the poster, event details are listed: '(your LG or city) coach to the big one!', the date and time 'Friday, 21 April 2023 at 15:00 BST', the location 'Exhibition Way, Birmingham, B40 1PA', the price '£20.00', and the capacity '40'. Below these details is a 'Preview your event' link. Further down, there are two sections: 'Who can see your event?' with radio buttons for 'Public' (selected) and 'Private', and 'When should we publish your event?' with radio buttons for 'Publish Now' (selected) and 'Schedule for later'. At the bottom of this section are input fields for 'Start date' (07/09/2023) and 'Start time' (17:00). On the right side of the main area, there is a 'Tips before you publish' section with links: 'Create promo codes for your event', 'Customise your order form', 'Manage how you get paid', 'Set your refund policy', and 'Add this event to a collection to increase visibility'. At the bottom right corner, there is a large red 'Publish' button.

How to find your event in your Eventbrite account

Log in and then click on the icon in the top right hand corner- which will be your account email or name. Then click 'Manage my Events'. From here you can find all the events you are planning.

You will be taken to this page, which will list your next event. Click the 3 dots on the right hand side of the event title, and this will open up several options. 'Copy URL', can be used to share your event, and 'Edit', which takes you back to the event page, and you can use the same process as when making your event. Just make sure to click save on each page or setting you edit.

The screenshot shows the Eventbrite 'Hello, Local' dashboard. The top navigation bar includes the Eventbrite logo and a 'Local support' button. The left sidebar contains icons for home, calendar, list, announcement, analytics, building, and settings. The main content area features a 'Hello, Local' greeting, a 'What's new' section, a 'Your next event is in 72 days' section with an event card for 'APR 21 (your LG or city) coach to the big one!', and a 'Your event checklist' section. A context menu is open over the event card, showing options: 'Promote on Eventbrite', 'View', 'Edit', and 'Copy URL'. On the right, there is a profile section for 'XR (insert your LG name)' with '2 Total events' and '-- Total followers', and a 'Let's help you become a marketing pro!' section with an 'Explore marketing tools' button.

If you are running more than one event, you may need to click the calendar icon in the left sidebar, which says 'Event' as you hover over it with your mouse. Click this, and it will take you to all your upcoming events. This page will also tell you how many tickets have been bought and the amount of money raised. Clicking your event will take you to the event dashboard.
