Writing and designing the 2023-24 strategy for Extinction Rebellion UK has been a collaborative and iterative process, fueled by the passion, expertise, and dedication of countless rebels. It is the result of extensive discussions, consultations, and collective decision-making within our movement. We have drawn inspiration from past experiences, successes, and challenges, as well as the evolving global context of the climate and ecological emergency.

Through respectful dialogue and deep listening, we have fostered an environment where different opinions have been valued and incorporated into our approach. It reflects collective wisdom and insights from diverse backgrounds, communities, and regions. We have carved the building blocks of this strategy through constant feedback, monitoring social ecology, and engaging with external perspectives.

As we embark on this next period, we do so with humility and a recognition that the path ahead will not be easy. We acknowledge the challenges and risks involved in pursuing nonviolent direct action and civil disobedience. We also acknowledge the need to constantly learn, adapt, and grow as a movement.

Together, we share purpose, focus and direction as we embark on a transformative journey, to challenge the status quo and demand urgent action on the climate and ecological emergency. This strategy is our blueprint, but it is the collective power and determination of rebels like you that will ultimately build the change we seek.
